

Look at all the different types of people in this Victorian street, some young, some older, some of them are poor and others are very rich. Why don't you fill in the empty bubbles with what they might be thinking?

